DRAFT WEEKEND

FRIDAY FIRST. THEN THE MONEY.

The weekend has an order. Hemorrhoid Games on Friday, with two seats into the Premier. Champeens at midday Saturday, cooking in the afternoon, Premier at night. Golf on Sunday. Two weeks later, Week 1 closed the invoice.

FROM THE DISCORD, THE AUCTION RECORD, AND THE ESPN MATCH RECORD

Friday. Kickball on the big field.

Amburgers filed the Friday mission statement before the first ball bounced, August 28th, four hours of sleep and a bad calf into the travel day: “About to put on the hemorrhoid games performance of a lifetime.” That is the name the album kept. The games come first for a reason. Two names go up before either board opens. Backdoor Heat and Jackin’ Goff came up. All Gold, No Glory took the Celery Stinks seat. Amburgers stayed downstairs. The Dank Horse became Texas Tornado’s Bush and never left the Premier.

SATURDAY RAN THE CLOCK. Champeens drafted at midday. The cooking competition sat between the flights. The Premier auction started after dark. Fart Toot Squeek paid $76 for Jahmyr Gibbs, the top line of the night, and ran the highest total spend in the room at $216. The Shiny Hineys took Bijan Robinson for $69. Thomas’s Terrific Team kept Derrick Henry at $66 and still found $61 for Christian McCaffrey. Diamond Dogs paid $65 for Ja’Marr Chase. Boom Baum walked out with Justin Jefferson at $46 and De’Von Achane as

THEN THE GAP. Boom opened the NFL season on September 9th with “Today is the day! Fantasy Football begins!!!!” Six days of football later the Kickers n Jigba put up 179.86, Josh Allen 37.7 and D’Andre Swift 32.9 among the wreckage, and beat the reigning champion 179.86 to 136.9. Gibbs gave Fart Toot Squeek 32.1. It was not a fair fight. Elsewhere Diamond Dogs beat Boom 133.86 to 98.8 with pieces Boom had sold them in the gap. Boom’s top scorer in the loss was Brock Purdy at 23.6. The floor got the review it always gets from the basement: “I forgot how much I hate fantasy football when I lose... This f’in sucks.”

PROMOTION NIGHT, ONE WEEK EARLY

A week before Friday's Hemorrhoid Games, the pod ran the promotion board live. Fart Toot Squeek reminded the room what the toilet bowl is for: "If we write it down and people that I care about end up in the relegation tournament, it's the toilet bowl. Like that's part of the experience now." Amburgers, already living downstairs after 2025, filed the humility report without blinking: "I am humbled by being relegated to the champions league in, especially in the fashion that I was." Then the knife. "Because it's a team that did not deserve to get relegated. And it's a team that should not have been relegated."

Only one Champeens finisher rises automatically now. "Part of the reason we did it was because we used to promote two automatically," Fart Toot Squeek said. "And to reduce it down to only one gets automatically promoted was significant." Friday still wrote two names the hard way. Backdoor Heat and Jackin' Goff came up through the games. Amburgers stayed downstairs and opened Week 1 with a win.
